

CANINE ACUPRESSURE : LUNG MERIDIAN

- METAL ELEMENT
LUNG, LARGE INTESTINE

Acupoint	Location	Uses
LU 1	in the space medial to the greater tubercle of the humerus in the superficial pectoral muscle at the level of the 1st intercostal space.	cough, asthma, pulmonary disorders, chest pain or tightness in the neck, shoulder and chest, helps with grief by opening the chest.
LU 7	is on the medial side of the front leg, proximal to the styloid process of the radius.	cervical stiffness and pain, intervertebral disc disease, carpal pain, facial paralysis, cough.
LU 9	on the medial side of the radiocarpal joint just cranial to the radial artery, at the level of HT 7.	chronic cough, asthma, weak bark, carpal joint pain, shortness of breath, poor endurance, grief, inability to let go.
LU 11	on the medial side of the 1st digit (dew claw) at the nail bed. If this digit has been removed, the point is where the scar is.	asthma, cough, allergy (dust, mold, pollen), nasal discharge, fatigue, loss of consciousness, calming effect in an acute situation such as hysteria, (although it may be unsafe to get to when this occurs).